Valiya Metropolitan of Mar Thoma Church Philipose Mar Chrysostom inaugurating the Christian Editors and Writers Society meeting at the Maramon Retreat

PATHANAMTHITTA: Valiya Metropolitan of Mar Thoma Church Philipose Mar Chrysostom has said that the church denominations should ponder over the other side of the truth to know the real and complete truth.

Inaugurating the first-ever general body meeting of the Christian Editors and Writers Society at Maramon Retreat Centre near Kozhanchery on Friday, Philipose Mar Chrysostom, who was instrumental in convening the unique event, said that to understand the other side of the truth, the churches should listen to criticisms.

The assessment of works undertaken by the churches for the society should be made by others, Mar Chrysostom said.

Churches should be ready to face criticism so that proper correction could be made, if necessary. Christian editors should understand the real truth and publish articles that could enlighten the mass, the Valiya Metropolitan said. Mar Chrysostom said that the coming together of the Catholic, Orthodox, Protestant and Pentacostal churches under the label of Christian Editors could augur well for opening a new chapter in Ecumenism. The Valiya Metropolitan called upon the editors for launching an awareness programme against liquor.

Editors Society president Fr Paul Thelakkattu presided over the function. Secretary Mathew Koshy Punnackadu welcomed the gathering.

Thomas Mathew, D Benjamin, Pastor Philip P Thomas, Rev A T Abraham, Joseph Pulikunnel, Rev V T John and Jose Parakadavil spoke.
